

Scott previously worked as a ski instructor but after feeling like this wasn't a lifelong career he began his Foundation Degree in Business, Management and Communications with Solihull College & University Centre. Scott also has experience in sales consulting and currently works in a restaurant whilst he is studying. Scott is a lead student and leads the Strategy Board meetings where he voices the opinions for students at the college; he believes he can relate to students as well as tutors as he has experience studying and working within a business. Scott is also the course representative for Business at the College. Post qualification, Scott hopes to progress to complete his top-up degree.
