

Terminology

awarding body	a UK higher education provider (typically a university) with the power to award higher education qualifications such as degrees bursary	a financial award made to students to support their studies; sometimes used interchangeably with 'scholarship' collaborative provision	a formal arrangement between a degree-awarding body and a partner organisation, allowing for the latter to provide higher education on behalf of the former compulsory module	a module that students are required to take contact hours	the time allocated to direct contact between a student and a member of staff through, for example, timetabled lectures, seminars and tutorials course unit	see 'module' coursework	student work that contributes towards the final result but is not assessed by written examination current students	students enrolled on a course who have not yet completed their studies or been awarded their qualification delivery organisation	an organisation that delivers learning opportunities on behalf of a degree-awarding body extracurricular	activities undertaken by students outside their studies feedback (on assessment)	advice to students following their completion of a piece of assessed or examined work formative assessment	a type of assessment designed to help students learn more effectively, to progress in their studies and to prepare for summative assessment; formative assessment does not contribute to the final mark, grade or class of degree awarded to students

HE Centre	a flexible student space that supports independent and social learning higher education provider	organisations that deliver higher education independent learning	learning that occurs outside the classroom that might include preparation for scheduled sessions, follow-up work, wider reading or practice, completion of assessment tasks, or revision intensity of study	the time taken to complete a part-time course compared to the equivalent full-time version: for example, half-time study would equate to 0.5 intensity of study lecture	a presentation or talk on a particular topic; in general lectures involve larger groups of students than seminars and tutorials material information	information students need to make an informed decision, such as about what and where to study mode of study	different ways of studying, such as full-time, part-time, e-learning or work-based learning modular course	a course delivered using modules module	a self-contained, formally structured unit of study, with a coherent and explicit set of learning outcomes and assessment criteria; some providers use the word 'course' or 'course unit' to refer to individual modules optional module	a module or course unit that students choose to take performance (examinations)	a type of examination used in performance-based subjects such as drama and music professional body	an organisation that oversees the activities of a particular profession and represents the interests of its members prospective student	those applying or considering applying for any programme, at any level and employing regulated course	a course that is regulated by a regulatory body regulatory body	an organisation recognised by government as being responsible for the regulation or approval of a particular range of issues and activities scholarship	a type of bursary that recognises academic achievement and potential, and which is sometimes used interchangeably with 'bursary' semester	either of the parts of an academic year that is divided into two for purposes of teaching and assessment (in contrast to division into terms) seminar	seminars generally involve smaller numbers than lectures and enable students to engage in discussion of a particular topic and/or to explore it in more detail than might be covered in a lecture summative assessment	formal assessment of students' work, contributing to the final result term	any of the parts of an academic year that is divided into three or more for purposes of teaching and assessment (in contrast to division into semesters) total study time	the total time required to study a module, unit or course, including all class contact, independent learning, revision and assessment tutorial	one-to-one or small group supervision, feedback or detailed discussion on a particular topic or project work/study placement	a planned period of experience outside the institution (for example, in a workplace or at another higher education institution) to help students develop particular skills, knowledge or understanding as part of their course workload	see 'total study time' written examination	a question or set of questions relating to a particular area of study to which candidates write answers usually (but not always) under timed conditions
